

Friday 24th September 2010

Traders Social Club is launched by Knowledge to Action

Leading UK trader coaching company Knowledge to Action has launched a series of regular social events to help people trading on the financial markets from home share strategies and tips.

The company's Trader Social Club evenings are designed to bring peers together to share their experiences of trading and gain advice from Knowledge to Action trader coaches and technical experts from charting software partner E-Signal.

The first Trader Social Club was hailed as a huge success when it took place earlier this month, and the next one is scheduled for 17th November.

Recent graduate and Trader Social Club member Ioah Buteah, a former construction worker who was inspired to take a course at Knowledge to Action's Traders University after receiving an email about the available learning opportunities, has heaped praise on the company's approach.

"The course is very good; it's fantastic. I'm a completely different person. My normal job is in construction and I just wanted to do something else. I heard Greg saying he didn't understand why more people don't do this kind of thing as it's a very easy way to make money. I had a look into it and here I am today making money."

The new social evenings provide forex and stock market course graduates with greater insight into the strategy and psychology of successful trading, with presentations from top trader coaches including Jonathon Fletcher and Tom Franklin.

Greg Secker, founder and managing director of Knowledge to Action, said: "It's very important that traders have an opportunity to meet, socialise and share their experiences, and we set up the Trader Social Club to make that possible on a regular basis. It's one of the ways in which we strive to give ongoing support, advice and encouragement to the people who have signed up to our courses. Our trader coaching offers people a chance to change their way of life, and that requires us to be there for them over the long-term."

Further information is available at <http://tradersocialclub.eventbrite.com/>

Knowledge to Action – Notes to editors

Knowledge to Action is Europe's largest trader coaching company and its formal educational programmes aim to provide students with a thorough understanding of the techniques necessary to deal independently in the financial markets.

The company was founded by Greg Secker in 2004 to train people in the UK wishing to start out as stock exchange traders. In 2008, it launched its forex course focusing on foreign exchange trading. The Traders University® programme takes place at Knowledge to Action's London headquarters.

The company has expanded internationally and now runs forex courses at a number of locations overseas. In the past seven years, more than 55,000 people have attended Knowledge to Action seminars in Europe, the Americas, Australasia and Asia and Knowledge to Action is planning to expand its Traders University® programme into the United States during the second half of 2010.

The company's growth was recognised when it was a regional finalist in the National Business Awards 2009.

For further details, visit the company's website at www.knowledgetoaction.co.uk or any of the following social networking sites: Greg Secker on Twitter, Knowledge to Action on Twitter, Greg Secker on LinkedIn, Knowledge To Action on Facebook or Greg Secker's blog.

For more information or images please contact:

Nick Henderson, Katie McBreen or Richard McCann

Friday's Media Group, 18 Soho Square, London, W1D 3QL

Telephone: 0845 500 1140

nickh@fridays-group.co.uk, katiem@fridays-group.co.uk or richardm@fridays-group.co.uk